SCIENCE FOR ALL

We're going on a bee hunt!

Bees are really important pollinators for the planet. To help protect them, we need to know where they are and how they're doing. Join the North East Bee Hunt to help record bees on our doorstep.

Check off any bees you find!

Red tailed bumblebee

Common carder bee

Buff-tailed bumblebee

White-tailed bumblebee

Garden bumblebee

Red mason bee

Early bumblebee

Fork-tailed flower bee

If you find a bee, don't forget to share your photo with the North East Bee Hunt by scanning this QR code.

Little ones who take part will be sent a well done certificate in the post. Just email your photos to info@life.org.uk and include your address and we'll be in touch! Alternatively, tag us in your bee hunt photos @ScienceAtLife on Facebook, Twitter or Instagram.
