Travelling on Metro		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> You must have a positive balance (£0.00 or more) to start any journey. You can travel if the cost of your journey takes you from a positive balance into a negative balance, but you cannot start a journey if you have a negative balance. You must validate your card/device by touching in at the start and touching out at the end of every journey you make, using ticket gates and validators at Metro stations. If you only touch in or out, you will have made an incomplete journey and will be charged a maximum fare (see glossary). If you fail to touch in at the start of your journey you will be deemed to be travelling without a valid ticket and may be liable for a Penalty Fare Notice and/or prosecution. If one or more of the ticket gates or validators at a Metro station are out of service due to faults, you must use all reasonable endeavours to use other available ticket gates or validators to validate your card/device. If you are unable to touch in and out, or forget to do so, you can apply for a Close Your Journey refund by selecting Request a Refund within your PAYG ticket stored in the Google Pay wallet. Further information can be found at nexus.org.uk (see Refunds – Close Your Journey refunds below). If all ticket gates or validators at a Metro station are out of service due to faults, speak to a member of staff or use a Help Point to contact staff in Metro Control. Each time you make a complete journey on Metro, you will be charged the relevant Pop PAYG single fare for the number of zones you have travelled in. Once you reach the daily cap for the number of zones you have travelled in that day, you will not be charged for any further journeys you make that day in the same number of zones. If you subsequently make journeys in additional zones, you will be charged up to the daily cap for those zones.
Refunds	Balance refunds	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Refunds are available on any unused balance you have. You can do so by selecting 'Request a refund' in your Google Pay wallet.
